The financial statements of the Company shall be prepared in accordance with PRC accounting standards, and shall generally be in accordance with the accounting standards of the PRC where the Company is registered. If there are significant differences in the financial statements prepared in accordance with different accounting standards, such differences shall be adjusted in the financial statements. For the Company's distributable profits, the lower of the amounts determined according to the aforementioned standards shall be adopted.

The Company shall disclose its financial statements according to two accounting standards mentioned above in each interim and annual profit distribution. If the auditors outside China modify the financial statements of the Company's annual accounts, the Company shall disclose the modified financial statements.

The Company shall disclose its financial statements within 60 days after the end of the first six months of each financial year, and shall disclose its annual financial statements within 120 days after the end of each financial year.

The Company shall not publish or disclose its accounting data in any other manner.

The company's capital reserve includes:

1. premium obtained from the issue of shares at prices above their nominal value;

2. other income required to be included in capital reserve as stipulated by the State Council's finance authorities.

When a Company distributes its after-tax profits for a financial year, 10 percent of the profits shall be allocated to the Company's statutory common reserve fund. The Company may stop allocating profits to the statutory common reserve fund if the accumulated balance of the statutory common reserve fund of the Company is more than 50 percent of the Company's registered capital.

If the accumulated balance of the Company's statutory common reserve fund is insufficient to make up for the losses of the Company in the previous year, profits of the current year shall be used to make up for the losses before allocating profits to the statutory common reserve fund according to the provisions of the preceding paragraph.

After the Company allocates profits to the statutory common reserve fund according to the preceding paragraphs, it may, upon a resolution passed by the shareholders in a general meeting, allocate profits to a discretionary common reserve fund.
